The King is BACK!!

and Better Than Ever!

Eye witness accounts have reported seeing the King himself, Elvis Presley, shopping the organic produce aisles at your local Silver City Food Co-Op. Much speculation has been raised in the community whether or not it could really be him, but the evidence is sound.

Our investigative reporter, Thadius Veritablious, hit the Co-Op to see for themselves! They were able to capture these stark images of Elvis stocking up on essentials to fuel his day. Upon interviewing the King, which was definitely a real conversation and not made up, Thadius reports Elvis lends his longevity and youthful glow to the organic produce he buys at the Co-Op. "It's all about what you eat, hubba hubba".

I've got a fever. And the only prescription....

Is fresh, organic veggies.

Hubba, Hubba.

You read it straight from the horses mouth!

Or, hooves...

on a typewriter...rather....

Anyway, the secret to a life of longevity and evading death is all in what you eat and keeping true to your rock n' roll self!

Is the Co-Op....

HAUNTED???

Numerous reports have been pouring in that the new location of the Co-Op may still be inhabited, and not by beings of this worldly existence. Eye witness accounts have stated a strange presence during late hours of the night, almost making the air seem cold and uninviting.

Some say that late at night, the freezer door will mysteriously open and shut on it's own!

Employees say you can catch glances of a shadowy figuring walking by at certain times of the day. Action reporter, Jack McFacty was on site to investigate these claims.

"These real photos I personally took are proof explaining these strange claims. I myself was terrified when I was editing...I mean...reviewing...these photos!"

But who is this mysterious spirit that frequents our beloved marketplace? Some say it's an old cowboy who disappeared one fateful night, looking for his horse after a night of poker at the Buffalo Saloon. Others say it's a woman spirit who originates from the Palace Hotel, some say she's grown weary of the pranking the guests and has ventured into more robust avenues.

Wherever this odd presence has originated from, the facts are clear. The Silver City Food Co-Op is indeed haunted! And you read it here first!

Meta is Coming!

Board Embraces AI Revolution

Artificial intelligence has been at the forefront of societal controversy since its debut several years ago. But how does Artificial Intelligence, or AI, help society? We have seen some of the exciting changes that it could lead to in such prime pieces of cinema art, such as the Terminator series, or I, Robot, which are beloved by millions. Who wouldn't want to fend off an impending hoard of robots whose only objective is to dominate and control the entirety of the human race? And what a better way to lead to the doomsday event than to incorporate AI into every single sector of our daily lives. Which is why the Board of Directors has voted to use all old locations as Meta data centers! Not only will we all be eventually held captive by these processes, but we can be hopeful we will also be fighting each other for water reserves! To think of what an exciting future this presents would make anyone gleefully remorseful for the state of human existence.

A close-up photograph of Mark Zuckerberg, looking slightly to the right with a neutral expression. He is wearing a blue crew-neck sweater.

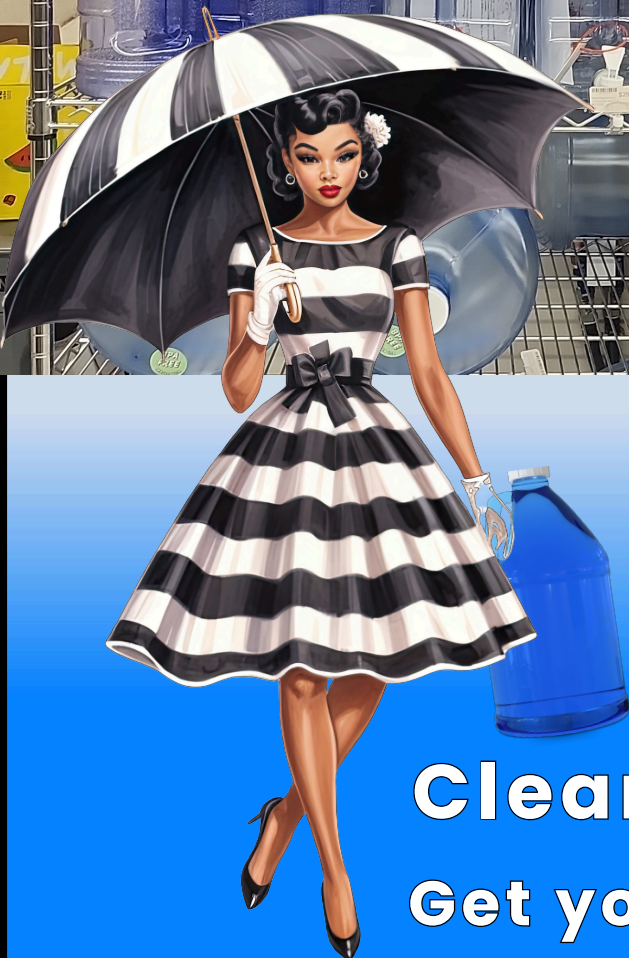

I'm totally not an Alien, I just look like one. And behave like one. Definitely not, though... Anyone have any pears?

Monday morning monotony got you feeling apathetic? Thanks to AI, you can live a life of complete dependence on a machine to do all your thinking for you. Art? What a waste of time! AI can pirate topics from artists all over the world and spit out a sub-par, emotionless wreck of a centerpiece that will have the masses asking...."why do the humans have so many hands? Do human children really look like that??"

But it doesn't stop there. AI Meta centers use thousands and thousands of gallons of water to make sure the processors used to make the artificial brain function do not overheat. And with having to do the thinking for thousands and thousands of humans, this is a fair trade off. Besides, fresh water is such a thing of the past and having it readily available and plentiful adds to the mundane state of existence. Humans will eventually be able to live the glamor of movie life and have to scrounge for essential resources needed for human survival. Who wouldn't want to guess where they are going to get fresh drinking water for the next day? The prospect is woefully thrilling! And in return, we get silly 12 second videos of Grandma dancing the tango in the Russian tundra, while wearing a sombrero made of fish heads and wheat grass. Those memories of that 12 second video will be remembered for at least a few days time! Well worth the trade off for having to eventually and permanently scour the Earth for fresh water, necessary for human existence.

ALIEN INVASION!

Do you guys carry organic Asian Pears?

This just in, our very own Silver City Food Co-Op Quonset Hut has been taken over by Aliens!!! Eye witness accounts suggest they come in peace, only wanting to share in the benefits of all organic produce. Others say these are malevolent beings, out to use the Quonset hut as a base for world domination. We assigned our best investigative reporter, well versed in the unexplained, Bill Shamner, otherwise known as Captain Curt to all otherworldly beings. "These beings are, what you would call...fasinating." Shamner continues, "They come in peace, and only want to boldly eat what no extra terrestrial being has ever eaten before...they seemed to be strangely fixated on Asian Pears". Although Captain Curt is a reporter, not a doctor, he cannot suggest as to the true meaning behind the alien objective, but speculation suggests sinister means. When Shamner interviewed the lead alien on the grounds, here was their response:

"We just want to make a really good pie. And this is where our coordinates took us when we Googled the recipe."

There you have it folks! The Aliens have come to steal our pears so they can make really good pies. You read it here, FIRST!

Organic Produce Suspected of Causing Advanced Brain Power

Reports are flooding in that Organic produce from the Silver City Food Co-Op is causing advanced brain chemistry in adults, young adults, and even the children! Parents who have recently shopped at the co-op and have eaten the produce reported feeling "better."

Susie Sanderson, a regular shopper of the Co-Op, says "They have what you call...nutrients. Not like the mass produced kind of vegetables, where they leave those things out because it takes too long to grow them." Susie suggested since eating organic vegetables with these so-called "nutrients", she has experienced some strange sensations. "My digestion is better, and I sleep better at night. Is this what normal feels like?"

George McGeorge, another regular shopper at the co-op, says " Since we've been feeding the kids these "nutrient rich" veggies, they've all but abandoned their devices!" George continues, "they spent an entire afternoon outside, running...playing. We had to turn the porch light on!"

Lisa Letterman, a local, says she's seen these kids "playing outside". "I'm 86 years old and I haven't seen anything like it in years!" she continues, "back in my day, we'd do this sort of thing all the time, you never see kids outside anymore."

Upon perusing the neighborhood, we noticed individuals outside the Co-Op, READING BOOKS! Logic suggests these nutrients are causing humans to be able to think and absorb information on their own, without the help of modern day devices. We asked Mark Zuckerberg for a comment but was unable to obtain one, and were told he was in the Quonset hut looking for pears. Upon review of the evidence, this may prove to be a bottleneck in the plans for Meta and the integration of Artificial Intelligence over Real Intelligence...but only time will tell.

HAPPY APRIL FOOL'S DAY!

You just read the first April Fool's edition of the Garbanzo Gazette. All articles and information contained within this particular publication are fabricated and is simply for satire and comedy purposes. Nothing mentioned within is fact, merely fiction for the fun and entertainment. We hope you enjoyed reading the silliness as much as we enjoyed creating it.

HISTORY OF APRIL FOOL'S DAY

April Fool's day has been a widespread tradition in society for centuries. Historians have yet to discover when exactly this tradition started, and how it came about, but evidence suggests that the tradition has been around since medieval Europe and more modern era France. The first text that suggests the existence of the merry-time tradition comes from English poet, Geoffrey Chaucer. His poem titled Nun's Priest's Tale, published circa 1390, which tells the story of a rooster and a fox that try to trick each other on the 32nd day past the beginning of March.

Another theory of the origin of this silly holiday comes from France, which celebrates Poisson d'Avril, translated in English as April Fish day. The tradition is celebrated by attempting to attach a paper fish to the backs of unsuspecting victims, and once the person realized they have been fooled, yelling "April Fish". There is textual evidence of this tradition dating back to 1508 via the works of French poet, Eloy D'Amerval, who mentions "April Fish" in his work Book of Deviltry, connecting fish to foolish people.

Though the origins of this fun tradition are still murky, we can all revel in the amusement of responsible tomfoolery practiced for centuries by our ancestors. If you take part in this holiday, please be mindful of all humans and stay away from hurtful topics that would cause another person undue anguish. Pranks can be fun when practiced in good spirit and help to keep this fun tradition alive and thriving.
